Monitoring of the approximately 71,000 plants in the remediated area indicates a healthy and vibrant wetland community. Additional details of the survivability of the wetland plants can be found in the 2004 Wetland Restoration Monitoring Report, including monitoring methods, monitoring results and invasive species control. The Monitoring Report is available at the public repositories and the Site Webpage.

Raytheon is committed to improving and protecting the environment and natural resources in your community.

Sincerely,
